ANNIHILATION OF ONE MORE SOVIET FORCE CLAIMED BY NAZIS

Also Tell of Capture of Additional 30,000 Soviet Prisoners

INCLUDES COMMANDER

In North, German and Finnish Troops Continue Steady Advance, is Claim

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Annihilation of another Soviet force southeast of Uman in the Ukraine and capture of an additional 30,000 prisoners were claimed by the German High Command today.

The captives, it was said, included the commander in chief of the sixth Soviet army and a number of other high officers. "Large booty" was taken, the announcement said.

In the north, according to the communiqué, German and Finnish troops continued their steady advance. Nazi forces in Estonia captured the town of Wessenberg, reaching the coast of Finland Bay.

An official German Admiralty statement said that 75,000 tons of enemy shipping were sunk by German submarines in the last few days in the Atlantic. New Nazi raids on Britain, Sicily and the British naval base at Alexandria also were announced.

Previously, military officials had announced capture of an important railway junction in the northern part of the Ukraine and a heavy new Luftwaffe raid on Moscow.

The junction capture in the Ukraine was not identified and no details were forthcoming immediately.

Democrats Stunned By Kelly Quitting

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—(INS)—Democratic circles were stunned today by the "permanent" resignation of John B. Kelly as City chairman of the party in order to devote his time to the post of national director of Civilian Health Training.

The former Olympic oarsman and successful brick contractor made the announcement at a meeting of ward leaders who had thought Kelly would ask only for a leave of absence from the city leadership. James P. Clark, 42-year-old trucking executive, was named as new chairman.

"I am leaving," said the 51-year-old Kelly, "because the President asked me to do a job he feels necessary at this time. To me the call of my country supersedes politics." He warmly endorsed selection of Clark as his successor.

Clark, a native of Pittsburgh, has been active with Kelly in managing most of the recent Democratic campaigns. He was not, however, a member of the City committee.

Kelly was elected chairman of the city committee in June, 1934, and is largely credited with the rise of the party in Philadelphia. He served as State secretary of revenue in the Earle administration from January, 1936, to June, 1937. In 1935 Kelly lost the Mayoralty election to the late S. Davis Wilson.

Vacation Jaunts Told of By Kiwanis Club Members

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 8.—Vacation jaunts were told of by members of Doylestown Kiwanis Club at their meeting on Tuesday evening at Doylestown Inn.

Members welcomed back from vacations included: President Judge Hiram H. Keller, Samuel B. Samuels, and Evans S. Brittain. Announcement was also made that one member of the club, Kiwanian R. Gerald Hennessy is confined to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, and a former member, Louis Moerman, Jr., is confined to the Abington Memorial Hospital.

Judge Keller presented a brief account of his very interesting fishing trip to northern Quebec and advocated that territory for a very satisfactory and moderately priced vacation trip. Lt. Governor J. Leonard Halderman of the Ninth Division, Pennsylvania Kiwanis, officially welcomed and initiated Frank X. Shelley into membership. N. Gorelick presided at the meeting.

SELLERSVILLE STILL FACES WATER SHORTAGE

Serious Emergency Threatens, Borough Council Members Are Informed

LEVEL DROPS 52 INCHES

SELLERSVILLE, Aug. 8.—Due to continued scarcity of water, Sellersville borough council still faces a serious emergency.

At a meeting of the councilmanic body this week, a report received from water superintendent, William Walter, indicated that if there is not a great rainfall within four weeks the town will have to seek some means of improving its supply. Mr. Walter said the level had dropped 52 inches since the local "drought" began in the Spring. He added that there is about four feet left in the large basin located several miles north of the borough. When the level gets down pretty low that it starts to take on a decided flavor. This the town had a taste of some years ago, after which it had a filter plant built and enlarged the impounding basin.

In the present instance the shortage that might come is much more serious to consider than any the town ever faced since the consumption is very much greater every day. This came about because local plants employ about 2,000 people, doubling the water consumption per day as compared to the amount needed when there was a drought of a few years ago.

For two weeks now the deep well pump at the filter plant has been operating 24 hours a day in an effort to stall off trouble until there is a good rain. Evaporation is so great now that there is great loss right at the source of supply. Council considered purchasing its water from Perkassie's plant.

Soviet Air Force Reported Over Berlin

London, Aug. 8.—Reports that the Soviet air force had carried out its first raid on Berlin reached London today.

German military officials said that "a few" RAF planes reached the capital last night but a thorough check by all authoritative British sources showed this to be untrue.

As a result, it was assumed that Russian fliers for the first time had reached Berlin, dropping bombs in retaliation for repeated German raids on Moscow.

An official air ministry communiqué said that a "great weight" of Britain's heaviest bombs were dropped on armament factories at Essen and Dortmund in the Rhineland during the night, while the important railway center of Hamm also was attacked.

Fine weather and good visibility aided the raids, it was said, and great damage was caused, with widespread fires left burning.

DIVORCES ON INCREASE CLAIM THE ATTORNEYS

Two New Actions Are Started In Bucks County Court This Week

SAY LIST MOUNTING

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 8.—Attorneys of Doylestown note an increase in the number of divorce actions started in Bucks County.

Speaking on the present canal condition, Moses J. Coyle, president of the Delaware Valley Protective Association, said: "The people of the Delaware Valley are becoming indignant at the stagnated condition of the water in the canal owing to the fact that the inlet at the intake lock at the Easton Dam is two-thirds filled with silt and the Department of Forests and Waters has done nothing about the removal of this silt to permit the necessary flow of water through the canal to prevent this stagnation."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Another Delayed Decision

Washington, Aug. 7. IT is getting to be one of the President's confirmed habits not to fill promptly the vacancies which occur in the higher offices within his gift. Whether this is because it does not seem important to him or because he likes to keep the aspirants and the newspapers guessing, it is difficult to say. At any rate, it is a fact that, even when his mind has been made up from the start, he has withheld the announcement for weeks—without any very clear reason.

His recent appointments to the Supreme Court were an instance of this tendency to postpone. The vacant Attorney Generalship is another. Perhaps it is not as vital now as in normal times, but it does seem that the Department of Justice should not be permitted to continue indefinitely without a head. When Mr. Robert H. Jackson resigned to go on the Supreme Court it was generally understood that Solicitor General Francis Biddle would succeed him. So sure did the usually well-informed Administration aides feel about this that there was real surprise the Biddle appointment was not announced simultaneously with the appointments of Mr. Jackson and Senator Byrnes to the Court.

The youths, William G. Straub, Philadelphia, and William R. Kerber, Cornwells Heights, who were taken into custody early yesterday morning were not given a hearing last night as planned. Penna. Motor Police want to talk to the pair and so far that reason the Bristol police held the two.

The pair was arrested by Sergeant Ferry and Officer Stackhouse, when they were seen acting in a suspicious manner at the Municipal Parking Lot. Last night Chief Jones stated that the two admitted robbing six automobiles here.

The prisoners are also said to have told police that they took two red lanterns which Penna. Motor Police had placed as warnings along highways.

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Aug. 8.—With "Patriotism" as the theme, nearly 600 individuals traversed the streets of South Langhorne, last evening, on the occasion of the second annual parade and community celebration sponsored by the Associated Business Men of South Langhorne.

It is estimated that a few thousand people, drawn from surrounding communities in lower Bucks county, witnessed the auspicious event in which patriotic, fraternal, business organizations; bands and individuals participated.

Gay with color, particularly the national hues of red, white and blue; with lively strains from various types of musical organizations; and a fine spirit of co-operation, the marching units left Woodland avenue and Center street promptly at seven o'clock, headed by a group of officers from the Pennsylvania Motor Police barracks at Hershey, mounted on horses.

The parade, which twice traversed Bellevue avenue; the patriotic program of music and speeches which followed; and the street dance in which many took part, were all pronounced a success, with the business men immediately looking forward to the parade of 1942. The main speaker on this occasion was Bucks County District Attorney Edward G. Biester, of Doylestown, who gave a stirring address at the reviewing stand, located on Bellevue avenue, near the Lincoln Highway.

Serving in the role of announcer was Joseph Downing, who following witty comments on the parade units, started the official program of the evening by presenting Ernest Heizman, vice-president of the Associated Business Men. Mr. Heizman, who acted in the absence of William P. Meldrum, president, who

FOOD MUST BE GIVEN GREAT CARE IN THE SUMMER

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)

Torrid summer temperatures bring special kitchen problems. The biggest problem of all is how to keep the family food supply in good condition in spite of the heat and humidity.

Rules for keeping foods in summer are little different than at any other time of year.

Milk, cream, and raw meat head the list of foods most likely to spoil at any time of the year. They need to be kept at a temperature at least as low as 45 degrees Fahrenheit. Take special precautions with raw meat, because this may spoil enough to make it dangerous to eat and still have no "off" odor or taste.

Keep meat in special meat compartment if there is one in the refrigerator. If not, keep it lightly covered with paraffin paper in a shallow dish. Take the store wrapping from the meat as soon as you get it home. Ground meat should not be stored for more than 24 to 48 hours at normal refrigerator temperatures. Don't keep other raw meat on hand for more than two or three days at a time, and use liver and other meat organs the same day you buy them.

Keep milk and cream covered tightly. Try to keep only enough on hand for current needs.

Butter and Cheese—Butter picks up odors easily. So keep it tightly covered. Print butter may be kept in the carton in which you buy it. Wrap hard cheese tightly in waxed paper. Keep soft cheese in original container, tightly covered or wrapped.

Eggs—Eggs should go into the refrigerator right away. Don't get a whole dozen out of the refrigerator if you only want to use one. For just a few minutes of summer room temperatures can add hours to the age of an egg.

Cooked Egg Dishes—These are worthy of special attention in any season. And many a case of summer food poisonings can be traced to them.

Cream puffs, potato and other salads made with an egg dressing, sandwiches from eggs, devilled eggs, and custard all spoil quickly. Make them the day you want them. Keep them in the refrigerator up to the time you eat them.

Vegetables—Don't buy these too far ahead of time. For they lose some of their precious vitamin values in storage. Keep salad greens in special vegetable pans or oil-silk bags so they will stay moist and crisp.

Fruits—These needn't be kept in the refrigerator unless they are full-ripe. Leaving them out at room temperature will complete their ripening. But once they are ripe, put them in the refrigerator. Soft fruits, such as peaches and plums, should be spread out in shallow dishes so they won't be mashed. And unless fruits have thick protective skins, keep them in covered dishes in the refrigerator.

If muskmelons are kept in the refrigerator, wrap them tightly in oil paper to keep their characteristic odor from getting into other foods. Store them on the top shelf of the cabinet.

Leftovers—Try to use all leftover foods a day or so after you put them away. Transfer leftovers promptly or cooked to clean, dry dishes that you from dishes in which they are served can cover. Heat them thoroughly before you serve them again. Cooked meat comes in this class.

Bread—A good place to keep bread is in a tin box. Scald and air this box at least once a week. And in the summer, never shut the box tightly. On the other hand, keep crisp crackers and cookies tightly covered and don't take them out of their containers until just before you're ready to use them.

Dried Fruits and Cereals—Keep them in tightly covered containers. Examine them frequently to see if there are any signs of weevils or other pantry pests. If there are, throw out the infected foods and take steps to get rid of any others that may be around.

General Refrigerator Care—Defrost mechanical refrigerators more than the usual once a week. When frost gets to more than 1/4 inch thick on the evaporator, up goes the refrigerator temperature. Keep the refrigerator clean and neatly arranged with room in between foods for free circulation of air. Try to cut down the number of times you open the refrigerator door every day.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Will skirts actually be longer this fall? Well, if you're a dyed-in-the-wool reactionary you'll probably hang on to your knee-length dresses and dare Heaven and the World's Best Designers to tear you away from them. But if you're really in earnest about following a new trend (some we don't say all) of your new fall frocks will stop at a new and pretty calf length. So, you see, it isn't so bad after all.

We're only summing up the latest information gleaned from a half dozen designers who predict the longer length, but only in the semi-formal dress or the frock and suit worn for the cocktail and tea hours, or for dinner, or the theatre, or an extra special date for supper.

It's our own personal opinion that longer skirts will never appear in active sports clothes because women will flatly refuse to relinquish anything styled for so much comfort and so much chic.

But worn on the occasions mentioned they are extremely flattering to the feminine form and cover up a multitude of figure faults. Not everyone has Dietrich legs, you know.

Too, the intricate draperies, pep-lums and tiers that are an integral part of the current silhouettes stressed for fall appear to better advantage in the longer lines.

What is Hollywood's reaction to the new credo?

To tell you the truth, it's a little early yet to report, but here and there a frock with a longer skirt is showing up.

Brenda Marshall, for one, entertained the cast of the "Smiling Ghost," at a patio supper party last week and was wearing a hand-painted pink shark-skin frock with its skirt 13 inches from the floor. Brenda reads her fashion squibs faithfully. All the fullness of the skirt was concentrated in the back (also new), the fabric splashed with huge white magnolias. Brenda's very tight bodice was laced down (not up) both sides with shark-skin shading from pink into white and terminating in white shoe lace bows below the hips.

Will Marlene Dietrich adopt the new mode?

She already has a lovely cocktail suit of navy wool. This is a very simple number high-lighted by three exotic Chinese heads of pure pink quartz on the bodice.

Miss Dietrich also makes a vigorous retort to girls who bewail covering up their "pretty legs."

"The most beautiful legs," she says, "are never attractive when exposed to the knee or just below it because this is not a graceful angle for a skirt."

"Actual 'short' skirts should just cover the upper curve of the calves. The new 'cocktail' length is prettiest when it accents the very middle of the fleshy part of the legs. Then if legs are too fat they appear slimmer, if too thin they suggest hidden curves."

Anyway, we're going to watch this new battle with interest.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

Late summer opportunities are now legion for shopping at a saving, and for seeing the newest fashions and advance items for fall. Also, present prices are pleasingly normal, and good Budgeteers should need no second urging.

Lose no time. Pepperell Duchess sheets—firsts—far below actual values in price. Plenty of them, but earliest shoppers stand least chance of disappointment during next few days. Get going to Snellenburg's 2nd fl. Bed and Bath Dept. Extra heavy and best muslin count to square inch—144 threads! Hear ye: 54x90 cot size or junior bed, 88¢; 63x99 single, $1.09; 72x99 twin, $1.19; 72x108 long twin, $1.19; 81x99 full size, $1.19; 81x108 extra long full, $1.49; 90x108 extra long full, $1.59; pillowcases, 33¢; bolster cases, 69¢.

Thinking of a fur-trimmed coat for this winter? Snellenburg's Coat Dept. are featuring a series of 368 groups with designs fairly running into 1942. Considering rising prices, the price of $68 is amazing. There are models for junior misses, misses, and women. Newest soft shoulders, slimming, tapering silhouettes, 100% wool fabrics. There are wine shades, grape, brown, beige, Venetian blue, black, brown, etc. Furs include rich, tipped skunk, blended mink, sable dyed squirrel, silver fox, lynx, dyed fox, dyed fitch, etc. Swell!

If there's one August Furniture Sale you shouldn't miss, it's that of Snellenburg's. Noted the year round for lower prices, the whole Furniture Dept. does itself proud this August season. Pay particular attention to the "Downy-Sagless" construction furniture, exclusive with this shop, and so sturdy that kids and heavy weights can't wear it down! See especially the two piece $199 living room pair of dayenport and easy chair, boucle covering and mothproof. Reversible spring cushions. Carved bases. Other grand buys.

At last they've perfected a brand new liquid, cool wave—permanent. Snellenburgs have the privilege, exclusively, of using it in Philadelphia. Latest process imaginable. No wires or electricity. Simply lie back with your head wrapped turban-wise while the liquid does its work. Curls closer to the head because no protectors are needed. This new "Liqui-Cool" is said to actually recondition the hair—even dyed, bleached, and brittle hair. What more can we ask? But let the balcony Beauty Salon folks explain more of its success!

Wish you'd tell the shop folks you're my friends. 'Bye! "F. C."

is on vacation, expressed appreciation for the generous co-operation manifest by all participants. He in turn introduced John Lappan, a member of borough council, who acted for Burgess William Rumpf, who is hospitalized. Mr. Lappan congratulated the business men on the success of their efforts in making this second annual affair a far greater event than the original one which marked the opening of newly rebuilt Bellevue avenue in 1940. He dwelt briefly on the theme of this year's parade, "Patriotism." He reminded that the United States Government is spending billions of dollars to protect the shores of the country, stating that each citizen should be ready and willing to do his and her part. After mentioning the trend of the times, with increased tax rates, telling that no doubt many luxuries must be foregone in the future, and that more men will be called up for service, Mr. Lappan asked that each citizen be ready to do his duty, thus showing a real spirit of patriotism put into practice.

He then introduced the guest speaker, District Attorney Edward G. Biester. With his voice reaching a few thousand people by means of a microphone, Mr. Biester said: "This occasion is dedicated to our country, its flag and symbols, and all for which our country stands. It is most fitting; for in this district, Bucks County, we find ourselves the arsenal of democracy in not a small way. Within a short time there will be employed in this county 50,000 men, working in defense industries. It is fitting that we have frequently such celebrations as the one arranged here this evening—in a center of such historical importance, close to Valley Forge, Philadelphia and Trenton.

"Tonight we should rededicate ourselves to all that makes America." At this juncture the District Attorney reminded that it is unimportant that individuals be deprived to an extent of silk hose and gasoline, "especially when across the ocean children are starving, and men and women are dying. All this is happening overseas, where but for the grace of God you and I might be tonight. We should thank God that we are in America."

Continuing, Mr. Biester reminded that just a little over 165 years ago in Philadelphia, the Declaration of Independence was signed. "Think of what that Declaration of Independence means to us. That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We adhere to the principles that men are fit to govern themselves. We should guard our rights zealously." The speaker reminded that the men who wrote that great document were dealing with a theory, but they were not certain if it would work out or not.

At this point he too reminded that in the future the people of America may be called upon to make sacrifices. "We will feel it, because we have had a life of ease and luxury. But when we are called on, we must each be ready to do all possible." The speaker reminded how our forefathers gave their lives that this country might be free. "And there were others who made sacrifices that were just as great. There is a shadow over the earth today because some believe in the antithesis of our form of government, and of liberty. We believe that the people are the government," he added, as he continued to tell of the ideas directly opposed to democracy which threaten to encompass the world. Although there are clashes of ideas and discussion of thought freely made in this country, which is as it should be in a democracy, the speaker added that "We believe inately in the same things. We just have different ways of getting there. . . . Though our path may not now be well defined, it will be shortly. Let us build a bridge across the chasm to aid others on to the democratic way. Then this country will be very safe, with its principles passed down to our children and grandchildren as they were to us."

Patriotic numbers by the Lyric Band of South Langhorne, and by the Newtown Band, preceded the formal program at the reviewing stand. A feature of the evening was also a brief drill and concert by the American Legion Junior Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps of Bristol. Just prior to this part of the program was a demonstration in pumping of water by the little "Billy Penn" engine, a hand-pump owned by the William Penn Fire Company, on a vacant lot near the stand. Three and four men manned the handles on either side of the antique pump, dated 1837, a good stream being thrown high into the air.

For the latter part of the evening, flood lights, mounted on business structures, lighted the street; and houses along the parade route were gay in decoration in the national colors.

The parading units were inclusive of: Mounted officers from Hershey barracks; borough officials in private car; Soby Post Junior Drum and Bugle Corps in uniforms of blue and white; Jesse W. Soby Post, No. 148, American Legion, and members of the Auxiliary; Sodano Service Station with small cart drawn by a goat; William Penn Fire Company of Humesville, with old "Billy Penn" pumper, and also modern engine, and a marching group in uniforms of blue, white and yellow; South Langhorne Girl Scouts; Langhorne Seascouts; South Langhorne Pharmacy, imitation tank decorated with flags; ambulance of R. The Great Game of Politics

ONE is that the President hesitates to nominate Mr. Biddle because of the certainty of opposition to him in the Senate and the hostility evinced toward him by one or two of the higher officials in the Department. Mr. Biddle is an exceedingly agreeable man of the highest character and real ability. Nevertheless, he is not free from enemies among his colleagues and associates. In the Senate, the reason for the opposition is the suspicion that Mr. Biddle is very much farther to the Left than any man holding the office to which he aspires should be. This may do Mr. Biddle an injustice, but there are those who insist that he is, at least, a "pink," that his tendencies are distinctly radical and a close friends more so.

BY contrast, it is said, he makes a his former chief, Mr. Jackson, appear conservative. There seems little in Mr. Biddle's record to justify this feeling about him, but it is true that most of the so-called "advanced thinkers" of the New Deal are anxious to see him installed as the real head of the department and some are resentful of the delay. As for the hostility of certain of his colleagues, that apparently is a matter of personality, and while some covert threats of resignations are being made, in the event of his elevation, they are not likely to materialize. However, the Senate fight against confirmation will materialize. While the President's weight probably could put the appointment through, there will be a fight, and that, it is said, he would like to avoid.

THE other explanation of the Roosevelt reluctance is that the President feels under no obligations to appoint Mr. Biddle just because it has been forecast that he would. He has made him no promise, and really would like to appoint Mr. Justice Frank Murphy, who was Attorney General before Mr. Jackson. It is well established that Mr. Murphy is not happy on the Supreme Court. For one thing, it is said, the work is not to his taste and he rather dislikes the restrictions on his social life which membership on the Court is supposed to impose. For another, he does not get along personally with Justice Felix Frankfurter. There has been no open break, but there is a complete absence of affection or esteem between the two.

WITHIN the past six weeks Mr. Murphy has lunched with the President, privately, at least four times. The result of these luncheons has been a series of printed reports that he wants to retire from the Court; that the President is considering making him either Attorney General or Governor of the Philippines, both of which positions he has held. It is said by Mr. Murphy's friends that he can be Attorney General again if he wants to, which (unless the President decides—as he might—to put Mr. Biddle on the Court in his place) would be pretty tough on Mr. Biddle, though not at all improbable.

HOWEVER, it should be improbable. It is the sort of appointment or switch that no President should consider. If Mr. Murphy is willing to leave the Supreme Bench to become Attorney General, it will be complete proof of his unfitness to sit on that bench. If Mr. Roosevelt, accepting his resignation from the Court, makes him Attorney General, or anything else, it will be evidence of his own lack of appreciation of what is due the Supreme Court.

This business of putting politicians on the Supreme Court who continue to be politicians is without defense. A man who ascends to this bench owes it to the court and to the country to cease all political activity and remain ineligible for any other public position or political role—including that of adviser to the President. Any other attitude, either by a member of the Court or by the President, detracts from the dignity of the Court and lessens the reverence in which it should be held. And, when the people cease to revere their Supreme Court, the American system may well be despaired of.

Nothing makes a selective service man in camp happier than a letter from home or a home-town newspaper in the daily mail, army officials said recently after an extensive survey.

Next in order, the selective service youth likes sweets such as candy, cookies and chocolates—and chewing gum!

Officers say that on the march the gum helps keep the boys from drinking too much water and from dipping into their lunch ration.

Other offerings which bring a smile of pleasure to the enrollee include a general repertoire of utilities among which are books of stamps, flashlights, a towel now and then, toilet articles, and reading materials.

Officers say that if relatives want to be sure their addressee gets what's mailed to him, they should address the letter or package in this way: Name first, his company or battery second, his regiment third, and, lastly the name of the post office.

FLEETWINGS DEALS A SEVERE BLOW TO BADENHAUSEN NINE

Boiler Makers Drop From 2nd
Position to Fifth Place

FINAL SCORE IS 2 TO 1

Kershaw Hurls The Airplane
Builders To Welcome
Victory

EDDINGTON, Aug. 8.—The Fleetwings team dealt a severe blow to the second half hopes of the Badenhausen team last evening as it nosed out the boiler-makers, 2-1, on Turner's field.

The loss dropped the Badenhausen aggregation from a deadlock for second place to fifth place. The airplane workers went into fourth place as the result of the win.

Aided by some flashy playing at shortstop by Dominick DiBlassio, the carot-topped "Sammy" Kershaw hurred the Murphymen to victory. He was found for five bingles but in the clutch he worked his speed ball to a good advantage. The boiler-makers had pairs of hits in the third and fifth innings but could not push over any runs in these canons.

In fact it was Kershaw's own wildness that caused the Badenhausen club to break into the scoring column. In the fourth he walked Ludwig who was sacrificed along and then scored by stealing a pass and a passed ball.

In that same frame, the airplaneers counted their first mark. It was handed to them on three consecutive errors by Rigby, Colbligh, and Vandegraft. The winning run was pushed over in the fifth on a hit by Kershaw, a stolen base, and a single by Sallustio.

Harvey Rigby did nice work on the hill for the losers, giving up but two hits. Both of these came in the fifth inning to help score the only earned run. Rigby had five strikeouts, although a trifle wild in passing three batters.

VOLTZ-TEXACO BOWS TO CHEMICAL-MIXERS

Falling to hold a 4-1 lead, the Voltz-Texaco team bowed to the Rohm and Haas nine last evening on the Maple Beach diamond. Final score was: Rohm and Haas, 10; Voltz-Texaco, 5.

The triumph put the chemical workers in first place, one-half game ahead of the Auto Boys team which received a forfeited game from the Odd Fellows. The Maple Beach aggregation needs but one more victory to assure themselves at least of a tie for the second half race.

There was no doubt that the Voltz boys should have sewed up last evening's contest. "Hal" Shackleton did a fine job on the mound but lacked support from his outfielders. Two errors and a misjudged ball helped the Rohm and Haas team to seven big runs in the third.

Andy Moore made the first miscue when he dropped Massilia's fly to enable Roe to score and later in the frame with two runners on base, Vince Boccardo missed a fly. A misjudged ball by Art Krames helped the chemical workers to another pair of markers.

Georgie Pollack had a batting night four for four "Jimmy" Cooper and for the Voltz-Texaco team, collecting Tazik played a nice fielding game for the losers while Wally Oppman did a fine job ahead for the winning combination.

Fleetwings Employees Engage in "Ball" Game

More than 200 Fleetwings employees gathered at the Turner Country Club, Eddington, Wednesday evening to enjoy a baseball game that was billed as the "game of the season"—between the Fleetwings' Regulars and the Fleetwings' Old Timers. All pre-game reports, which promised much action and many thrills, became realities from the time the opening pitch was tossed by President Frank DeGanahl to the end of the contest which found the Fleetwings Regulars on top by the narrow margin of 5 to 4.

In the opening ceremonies President DeGanahl pitched to batter Frank Correll, planning supervisor, with Edward DesLauriers, assistant personnel director, behind the plate. From then on the batteries of the teams were: Regulars—Ellis Coles and Samuel Kershaw pitching and John Daugherty and Thomas Logan catching; for the Old Timers, Fred "Fireball" Gmitter and Joe "Slowball" Nonini pitching and Guy Daugherty catching.

Walter E. Straug, personnel director, and William Gray were the umpires, and the Regulars were managed by R. D. Murphy and the Old Timers by William White.

The outstanding play of the game was made by Robert James of the Old Timers when he speared, one-handedly, a hit that otherwise would have probably resulted in a home run. For all-round superb performance the chief credit goes to Fred Gmitter who's pitching, batting, and sliding was spectacular.

Another Fleetwings' baseball outing is being planned tentatively for next month at which time the Old Timers intend to even accounts with their younger adversaries.

EDGELY, Aug. 8.—"Willie" Salerno and his St. Ann's mates practically blasted the second half hopes of the Edgely team last evening on the latter's field as the "Saints" came through with a 4-1 triumph over the DeKoyersmen.

Salerno, backed by adroit fielding, and his tantalizing slow ball had the Edgely batters either popping up or grounding slow balls to the infield. Salerno held the Edgelyites to a quartet to a quartet of hits and was aided by two sparkling double-plays.

Two of the four markers scored by the winners were uneared. One of the earned tallies was a home run blast to left field by Tony Palumbo in the seventh inning. The other was the result of a hit by DeLuca, a pass to DeRisi and a single by DiTanna.

A hit by Bleakney, Linck's sacrifice, and a bingle by Downsap accounted for the lone Edgely marker.

It was the second time within a week that the lowly St. Ann's team beat one of the league-leaders to topple them from the top perch. Last Thursday evening, Diamond was resting on first place when Salerno and his teammates whitewashed them to drop them down the ladder.

NEW KIND OF RUBBER

CHICAGO — (INS) — The United States Rubber Company has announced a method of making a new kind of rubber. The new material, known as cellular rubber, is now being produced in sizeable quantities for defense needs and further use for peace time needs is seen. The new material, which will never absorb enough water to cause it to sink, resembles ordinary sponge rubber, but it differs both in structure and properties. It will be useful in flotation devices and one of its first defense uses will be in life-saving jackets.
